You Tell On Yourself

You tell on yourself by the friends you seek,
 By the very manner in which you speak,
 By the way you employ your leisure time,
 By the use you make of the dollar and dime.
 You tell on yourself by the things you wear,
 By the spirit in which your burdens bear,
 By the kind of things that make you laugh,
 By the places you go to photograph.
 You tell on yourself by the way you walk,
 By the things of which you delight to talk,
 By the manner in which you bear defeat,
 By so simple a thing as how you eat.
 By the books you choose from the well-filled shelf,
 In these ways and more, you tell on yourself.
 So there is not even a particle of sense,
 In an effort to keep up a false pretense.

The Piercing Nails

It was the darkest day in history
 When Jesus died for the lost
 For there was pain with cries of rejection
 When Jesus was nailed to the cross.

Each hour brought suffering and sorrow
 Among their mockery and yells
 Such pain cannot even be imagined
 As they drove in the piercing nails.

Yet there was also such power and glory
 Because our Lord had not failed
 For He brought love with great salvation
 When the enemy drove in the nails.
