Sermon Quotes

- The best way to compliment the preacher on his sermon is to bring somebody with you to hear the next one.
- Very few people find the sermon too long if it is helpful.
- Too many folks would rather hear a good sermon on Sunday than to live one during the week.
- It is easy to appreciate any point of a sermon that prods somebody else.

Willed To The Devil

Paul describes the Christian life as a battle against the devil. He asked the Ephesian Christians to:

"Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil" (Eph. 6:11).

However, it is wondered how many times we work for him by simply doing nothing. For example, the devil won the battle with Felix, when Paul taught him, because he put off obedience.

"Now as he reasoned about righteousness, self-control, and the judgment to come, Felix was afraid and answered, 'Go away for now; when I have a convenient time I will call for you' " (Acts 24:25).

The following story illustrates the dangers we face when dealing with the devil. In fact, one of his favorite methods is neglect and procrastination.

"A Finnish infidel died and left his farm willed to the devil. The courts, after deliberating on such a ridiculous set of circumstances, decided the best way to carry out the wishes of the infidel was to permit the farmland to grow up in weeds and briars, to allow the house and barn to remain unpainted and to rot down, and to permit the soil to erode and wash away. The court said, "The best way to let Satan have it is to do nothing."

Therein lies a common story. Few of us claim to be infidels, and few plan to will land or life over to the devil. However, we may actually do the same thing by procrastination, and putting off what we know we ought to do. We look for a convenient time, and postponement is the most popular method of avoidance. We say, "Sometime we will take care of that." And, as with the farm willed to the Devil, procrastination becomes the perversion of something good."

Here is Paul's advice to all Christians:

"Neither give place to the devil" (Ephesians 4:27).

Jesus knew the devil better than anyone did as he made every possible effort to deceive Jesus. Nevertheless, he totally failed! Why did the devil fail? He failed because Jesus knew his purpose and motive. Therefore, Jesus said to those who were refusing to believe in Him:

"You are of your father the devil, and the desires of your father you want to do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he speaks from his own resources, for he is a liar and the father of it" (John 8:44).

Therefore, don't ever believe or obey anything that the devil suggests!
