Youth News

I love our FALL RETREAT! The cabin, the meals, the fun, the spiritual growth, and the fellowship are just part of what makes the weekend a blast. A great big thanks to all who went and helped. I trust we are all better prepared for that Day when we shall truly "assemble on the mountain." To God be the glory...

The PEW PACKERS are back at it this Sunday beginning at 5:00 pm. Our topic will be "The Coat of Many Colors."

The McVeys will host our next HOME DEVOTIONAL this Sunday following evening worship. I want to encourage all the middle/high school kids (and others) to join us. The boys are asked to bring a drink and girls a dessert. (Remember, no school the next day!)

Parents please don't forget the "WORSHIP NOTES FOR KIDS" on the foyer table!

UPCOMING EVENTS:

Oh Be Careful Little Tongue...

David knew the great power of the tongue and thus said, "I said, 'I will guard my ways, Lest I sin with my tongue; I will restrain my mouth with a muzzle, While the wicked are before me.'" Psalms 39:1 Later he prayed, "Set a guard, O LORD, over my mouth; Keep watch over the door of my lips." Psalms 141:3

Solomon stressed, "Death and life are in the power of the tongue, And those who love it will eat its fruit." Proverbs 18:21. And he said, "The tongue of the wise uses knowledge rightly, But the mouth of fools pours forth foolishness." Proverbs 15:2 and "Whoever guards his mouth and tongue Keeps his soul from troubles." Proverbs 21:23

James sums it up, "If anyone among you thinks he is religious, and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his own heart, this one's religion is useless." James 1:26

Just Your Interpretation?

I always smile (at least on the inside) when some-one asks me, "What does the church of Christ believe about such-and-such?" Usually my reply is something like this: "I don't know what the church believes about it, but let's see what the Bible says."

I understand what folks are asking – they're used to the idea of a church having a creed or confession of faith that spells out its "official position" on various issues. But the question arises: If you need a creed to "interpret" the Bible, what makes you think you can understand the creed? Will you need another document to "interpret" the creed? And another to interpret the interpretation of the creed? Where does this end?

The whole idea of "interpreting" the Bible is troublesome. If, by "interpret," we mean to determine the teaching of a passage, then of course we must do so. Jesus severely criticized those who failed to use Scripture and sound reasoning to arrive at truthful conclusions (see Matthew 22:29-32).

But many understand "interpret" to mean putting your own slant on a text to suit your personal agenda. A common assertion, "That's just your interpretation," betrays such thinking. It assumes that there are as many interpretations as there are people, and that any particular interpretation is as valid as any other. Therefore, we cannot know for certain what the truth is, nor can we say that any particular interpretation is right or wrong.

Is there such a thing as the "right" interpretation? Paul affirmed that people who read what he wrote can understand (Ephesians 3:4). That isn't to say there aren't "some things hard to understand" (2 Peter 3:16). However, by using the Scriptures with sound reasoning, we can reach reliable conclusions. Peter did not say that those difficult things admit of a dozen interpretations; in fact, he warned that "those who are untaught and unstable twist (those hard passages) to their own destruction, as they do also the rest of the Scriptures" (2 Peter 3:16).

Indeed, wrong interpretations are destructive to our spiritual well being! Let us stand boldly with the word of God, "handling aright the word of truth" (2 Timothy 2:15).
