Fruit Inspectors

"You will know them by their fruits. Grapes are not gathered from thornbushes nor figs from thistles, are they? So every good tree bears good fruit, but the bad tree bears bad fruit" (Matthew 7:16, 17).

"Don't judge me" seems to be a common mantra today. One cannot even offer constructive criticism without being blasted with this diatribe. We can be sure there has been plenty of unfair judgment of people, and judgment made in anger, malice, and hypocrisy. "How dare you pass judgment of me, you hypocrite!" This is pretty much what Paul said to the Jews in Rome who were judging Gentiles. "Therefore you have no excuse, everyone of you who passes judgment, for in that which you judge another, you condemn yourself; for you who judge practice the same things" (Romans 2:1).

Did not Jesus tell us to judge righteously? "Do not judge according to appearance, but judge with righteous judgment" (John 7:24). Our hearts must be right, and our actions true.

Jesus said that we are not to cast our pearls before swine or to give what is holy to the dogs (Matthew 7:6). Then, later in the chapter he warned of false prophets and said, "By their fruits you shall know them." How is this possible without some form of judgment? When we go shopping for fruit, we become fruit inspectors. We want to select the best and refuse the bad. We cannot know the bad from the good unless we have a standard, and that standard is the word of God. With it we can discern what is good or evil (Hebrews 5:14).

We are responsible to warn others of the dangers of unforgiven sin. But we must speak the words in love, says Paul.

Be good fruit inspectors.
